

Biodiversity Duty: Vascular Plant Survey of National History Museum, St Fagans, Cardiff

Tim Rich
Department of Biodiversity & Systematic Biology

National Museum Wales November 2009

Introduction

From 1 October 2006, all public authorities in England and Wales have a duty to have regard to the conservation of biodiversity in exercising their functions (Section 40 of the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006). As part of the Museum's response to this legislation, biodiversity audits are being carried out at a series of its sites.

In this report, a draft vascular plant list is presented from a survey of the grounds of the National History Museum, St Fagans in 2008 and 2009.

Methods

The survey was carried out by Tim Rich in October 2008 whilst carrying out the Phase 1 habitat survey, with additional data from 1 March 2009, 7 April 2009 and 5 May 2009. The area surveyed is shown in Figure 1. A few specimens of taxa difficult to identify were collected for later determination. Obviously planted taxa such as the Garden roses were not recorded, with a few exceptions. Nomenclature follows C.A. Stace (1997), New Flora of the British Isles, Cambridge University Press.

Results

The species recorded by T. Rich are listed in Table 1.

TABLE 1. VASCULAR PLANTS RECORDED AT ST FAGANS, T. RICH 2008 AND 2009. Alien species not native in the British Isles or introduced at this site are marked with an asterisk *.

In addition, Julian Woodman noted Anthemis arvensis in the yard of Llwyn yr eos a couple of years ago.

Discussion

At least 257 species have been recorded in 2008-2009, of which 44 were not native to the British Isles. Most of the plants are common and widespread and of little interest, but four are worthy of note:

Groenlandia densa is a declining aquatic plant which has one of its very few remaining Welsh sites in the ornamental ponds.

Polypodium cambricum is a locally distributed fern rare on walls, rocks and boulders.

Orobanche hederae is an uncommon herb parasitic on ivy.

Aconitum napellus is regarded as locally native in SW England and S Wales, and occurs on both the river bank in a semi-natural habitat and in the woodland.

It is likely that perhaps 50 more species will be recorded when further surveys are carried out in 2010, and fuller surveys of Taraxacum and Rubus are required. Based on the incomplete documentation of specimens in the Welsh National Herbarium, six additional species have been recorded from the museum site in the past (Appendix 1), but have not yet been refound.
